

IMAGE OF THE MONTH

Bilateral natal clefts in a neonate

A term female neonate is found to have bilateral natal clefts terminating in a lipomatous nodule (see Fig. 1). The anus is located proximally. What is the likely diagnosis, and how would you investigate this further? (Answer on page 791).

Dr Anthony Zehetner
Consultant Paediatrician
Gosford Paediatrics
Gosford, New South Wales
Australia

Fig. 1 Bilateral natal clefts.